

THE SCOTS

History

Fort Vancouver was a Hudson's Bay Company's (HBC) fur trading post established in 1824. Until 1845 operations were overseen by Chief Factor John McLoughlin. As the headquarters of HBC's fur trade activity on the Pacific coast, its influence stretched from the Rocky Mountains in the east, to Alaska in the north, Alta California in the south, and to the Kingdom of Hawaii in the Pacific. Ratified in 1846, the Treaty of Oregon was signed by the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and the United States, ending a decades' long Oregon boundary dispute setting the border at the 49th parallel. In June 1860, Fort Vancouver was abandoned by the HBC in favor of their stations in British Columbia, principally Fort Victoria.

Legends & Lessons

Employers have tasks that need to be performed that grouped together create a “position” and similar position are known as a “job.” They look for individuals with skill, ability, and knowledge and, add to that, energy, interest and working conditions that in Canada were northern and cold. It is no surprise that a London company looked north to Scotland for: 1) boat crews and 2) managers of their many outposts. The former were called “Orkneymen” (even further north) or “Scots.” Most were hired under a short-term contract with the hope of returning home with a nest-egg.

Managers were treated a bit differently. Canadian management would visit Edinburgh each year and recruit a “class” of young managers. They’d travel together via ship (with training ongoing) finally ending up at Fort Winnipeg in central Canada. Their stay there would find locked doors on the hotel - none were allowed to leave and walk the streets and potentially escape south to the Land of the Free.

When Fort Vancouver moved to Fort Victoria in 1860, John McLoughlin stayed to live in Oregon City, U.S.A!

Ethnobotanical Gardens

Native plant “starts” from Bonhoeffer Gardens (to your SW, by the I-5) illustrate 99 foods and materials available to the American peoples who lived here 10,000 years without the need to develop agriculture. Planter boxes contain:

Acer circinnatum (81) Achillea millefolium (82) Achlys triphylla (83) Adiantum aleuticum (84) Allium cernuum (85) Allium schoenograsum (86) Alnus rubra (87) Amelanchier alnifolia (88) Anaphalis The Farm Museum and Garden's goal is to provide Washington State public school students a visual, non-text, introduction to NW History. Local Legends are stories our ancestors told (to us), their grandchildren, who are now 75 years of age. "History" (as compared to "lies perpetrated on the dead") is taken from Wikipedia under the Creative Commons Attribution Share-Alike Agreements until PLC can develop its unique limited prose. These efforts are now underway with assistance of local school districts and the Stillaguamish Tribe. Plant prose, QR Code Links, and photos are taken from: www.usda.gov (attribution: U.S. Dept. of Agriculture), Wikipedia, and the UoW's www.biologyburke.washington.edu/herbarium website under educational uses. URL Links provided by: USDA, NRCS; the PLANTS Database (<http://plants.usda.gov>) National Plant Data Center, Baton Rouge, LA 70874-4490 USA. Visitors enter under the Revised Codes of the State of Washington - RCW 4.24.200 & 4.24.210 allowing public recreational use, including nature study and viewing or enjoying scenic or scientific sites/waterways on private land. Museum and gardens are proposed uses that still require Snohomish County Planning approvals. At present buildings serve as auxiliary storage units for PLC's native plants, gardening equipment, and Christmas decorations.
